AT THE ILLINOIS.

The lights of the great white way seem to have no lure for dainty Marie Quinn, the little comedienne of the Fiske O'Hara company. She professes, unlike most of her sister players, to have no love for life in the great cities, and her chief ambition is to live among the flowers and trees in the country.

"Don't imagine that this is merely the idea of a travel-worn player," says Miss Quinn. "Most theatrical people have the desire to get away from the travel and spend the rest of their existence on a farm. I am not quite so pastoral in my ideas. I detest the awful life of the big cities, however, and cannot help believing that the nerve-wrecking noise with which one is ever surrounded in them is fatal to all kinds of mental progress. They infuse a restlessness in one's very blood that cannot fail to undermine the physical and mental health of those who are compelled to live amid such clamor. I fly to my gardening as soon as I am finished acting for the season, and I don't know which I love most, my theatrical work, or my flower culture. Since my early childhood, I have been on the stage and some of my happiest memories are connected

AT THE DREAMLAND.

"Satan Sanderson," the first release of the Metro Pictures corporation in which Orrin Johnson plays the title role comes to the Dreamland theatre tomorrow. Johnson is one of the most noted matinee idols of his time. He will be seen as the central figure in a series of pictures to be produced by the Metro corporation.

AT THE COLUMBIA.

The Western Vaudeville Managers' Association, from whom the Columbia obtains its bookings has a list of acts numbering about three hundred that have stood the acid test, hence are called standard acts. Each act on to-morrow's bill at the Columbia has made good all over the circuit, and no doubt will receive a warm reception here. These will be sure to be the feature attraction with an equilibrium act and to be the grandest of its kind in vaudeville. They are just masters in their line. Senator Francis Murphy, chairman of the committee, brings a great personality to the Columbia and a barrel of new material and laughs. Lucifer, Follett and Weeks is a comedy sketch, "He'll Be Back" have an act most of you will want to see twice, especially if you like to laugh. King and Harvey, voice and piano will be seen in a character song study. The Musical Geralds will open the show with their pleasing scenic music novelty. Thursday the three Steinadel Bros. will be booked. They left a host of friends from last season who will be glad to know of their return.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

There is a woman at the Majestic theatre tomorrow that everybody will want to see. It is Emily Stevens, the celebrated actress, in "The Soul of a Woman." This is a photoplay image from Anthony P. Kelly's inspiring allegorical story, "Destiny." Miss Stevens may well be called one of the greatest emotional actresses in America and her work in this role fairly lifts her above anything she has ever done. The play is in five reels and carries a wonderful message to all people. On Monday Violet Heming in "The Running Girl" will offer a dramatic play filled from end to end with tense situations and a wonderful story worked out in clever manner. Tuesday will be noted by showing Richard J. Jose in "Silver Threads Among the Gold." "The Fighting Hope," one of Belasco's greatest successes, will be shown with Laura Hope Crews and Theodore Roberts in the leading roles. Wednesday. The story concerns a young man who gave up liberty for a chance to make a fortune in an illegal way. Subsequently when his wife tries to gain his release, she finds evidence of his guilt. The story holds the spectators to the finish and is cleverly constructed. On Thursday and Friday "The House of a Thousand Candles," a film version of the book of the same name, will be shown at the Majestic. This big feature is put on with Harry Mestayer and Grace Dar-
